DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 2. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Elliot (US 6,243,039) in view of Reed et al. (US 4,876,710).

Regarding to claim 1, Elliot discloses a personal/child locator system (figure 1) comprising:

a transmitter unit (12) powered by a battery (col. 5, line 60 through col. 6, line 12) and a receiver (col. 4, lines 52-58) installed within a jewelry item (figure 2, col. 4, lines 52-58) to be worn by a user that is activated remotely by an activation radio signal (col. 3, lines 15-22) received by the transmitter unit receiver and locally by depressing a panic button (22, col. 3, lines 38-45):

the receiver unit programmed with the transmitting frequency of the transmitter unit and a receiver unit transmitter for transmitting the activation radio signal (figure 1);

when activated, the transmitter unit transmitting a signal an overhead satellite network (14) which then transmits a coordinate signal to the receiver unit (col. 5, lines 32-40).

Art Unit: 2632

Elliot discloses everything claimed except for the panic button by being depressed twice in sequence. Reed et al. teach a communication device (figures 2-3) including a panic button (50) initiating a panic signal through operation of the panic button in a particular sequence (col. 15, line 55 through col. 16, line 14). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use a particular operation sequence for the panic button of Elliot, as suggested by Reed et al., for the purpose of preventing false alarms.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 1 has been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion
